

Red Distribution Box Manufacturer

Article Overview

Red distribution boxes are available from specialized manufacturers like Würth Elektronik, Transoplast, and Red Box Direct, offering solutions for power distribution, storage, and life sciences applications.

Industrial and Electrical Distribution Boxes

Würth Elektronik produces the REDline Power Boxes, a modular platform for power distribution in standard housings. These boxes are customizable in terms of size, number of power inputs, connector pins, and output directions. They are designed for high efficiency, robustness, and fast time-to-market, making them suitable for industrial machinery, telehandlers, and other applications requiring compact, modular power distribution units .

Plastic and Storage Red Boxes

For non-electrical applications, Transoplast offers a wide range of red plastic bins and cases. These include stacking bins, lidded bins, pallet boxes, and transport trolleys. They are designed for durability, color-coding, and ease of handling, making them ideal for warehouses, logistics, and commercial storage systems .
