

Thailand seeks to purchase fiber optic cables at low prices

Article Overview

Thailand primarily sources fiber optic cables from China, with import prices averaging $12,124 per ton in 2024, offering opportunities to negotiate lower-cost purchases through alternative suppliers and strategic sourcing.

Current Import Landscape

Thailand's fiber optic cable imports are heavily concentrated, with China supplying 77% of the import value in 2024, followed by smaller contributions from the United States and Japan . The average import price in 2024 was $12,124 per ton, reflecting a 22.6% decline from the previous year, although long-term trends show gradual price increases . This indicates that while prices have recently dropped, careful timing and supplier selection are crucial for cost-effective procurement.

Key Suppliers and Market Players

- FUJIKURA LTD dominates Thailand's imports, accounting for 74% of shipments, followed by FUJIKURA ASIA LIMITED with 16% and another FUJIKURA entity at 7% .
- THAI FIBER OPTICS COMPANY LIMITED (TFOC) is a domestic manufacturer and distributor, producing single-mode and multi-mode loose tube fiber optic cables. Under new management since 2024, TFOC emphasizes competitive pricing and improved service, though customization capabilities may be limited .
- International suppliers, particularly from China, Vietnam, Malaysia, and Indonesia, offer extensive product portfolios and OEM/ODM capabilities, providing viable altern...
